
In commemoration of Africa Day 2013 The Global African Studies Program at Seattle University Presents an essay competition

PURPOSE: To deepen students' understanding of the Global African World.

DUE DATE: Monday, April 29th, 2013

ELIGIBILITY: Any student who is currently enrolled in a middle school in the King County School Districts (Includes Seattle Public Schools).

PRIZE: $100 First Place Prize
$ 75 Second Place Prize
$ 50 Third Place Prize
Other prizes will be awarded as well

MIDDLE SCHOOL ESSAY COMPETITION:
Write an essay that is between 400 and 500 words in response to the following question: How can the United States help improve the relationship between young people in the United States and in the global African world?

FORMAT REQUIREMENTS:

A completed Africa Day Contest Entry Form must accompany each submission.
Essays much be written in English.
Essays typed on a computer must be in a 12-point font and size that is easy to read.
Handwritten essays must be legible, on plain white or lined paper, either printed or in cursive.
The title of the essay must be written at the top of the first page.

DIRECTIONS FOR ENTERING:
Electronic entry is preferred. If students have limited access to the Internet, entries may be hand delivered or mailed. Entries must be received electronically, by mail or hand-delivered by April 29th with the attached 2013 Africa Day Essay Contest Entry Form. Late entries will not be accepted:

To enter electronically:
Email your essay as a Word file attached to reynoldk@seattleu.edu

EVALUATION:
The essays will be read and reviewed by a committee of Global African Studies faculty at Seattle University. Winners will be announced at the May 31st Africa Day Celebration at Seattle University.

To enter by mail/delivery:
Send or deliver your essay to:
Kate Reynolds
Global African Studies Essay Competition
Global African Studies Program
Seattle University
P.O. Box 222000
Seattle, WA 98122-1090